Denials of Miss Taylor and Puglist are Not Taken Seriously

Los Angeles, Jan. 10. (Universal Service)—"In her business manager not her prospective husband."

This was Jack Dempsey's comment today on the fact that Death Taylor, his celebrity, had been granted a divorce at Philadelphia.

Dempsey denied that he and Miss Taylor intended to be married immediately.

"We are not engaged," he said. "Miss Taylor is going ahead with her motion picture work, in which I am interested, naturally as big time movie manager, and I'm going to try to find a few light ones. I'm building a new gymnasium and when it is finished I'm going to put it to work."

"I think it would be very bad for me to say anything more about this matter," he said.

Declares State Is
"Little Reno of the East"

Providence, R. I., Jan. 10.—Rhode Island is deemed as the "Little Reno of the East."

Public agitation against the great number of "easy divorces" in this State culminated in the introduction of a bill in the Legislature by Mrs. Isabelle A. O'Neil, the State's only woman representative, providing for the establishment of a divorce relations court.

Presenting her bill to the State House, Mrs. O'Neil declared that Rhode Island is a "Little Reno of the East."

Cuts Nerve Leading to Cancer and Saves Victims

Leningrad, Russia, Jan. 10.—Dr. Molodtsov, professor in the Neurological Academy here, announces the employment of a new method of treating cancer, which he claims will effect cures.

The treatment, consisting of cutting the nerve leading directly to the cancerous growth.

According to Professor Molodtsov, the nerve play a vital part in all cases of cancer.

At the Academy of Medical Sciences he exhibited several patients who, he said, had been cured by the new method.

The same treatment, he said, will also be used to cure cancer of the breast.

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

MARGARET MEADOWS married Will Lee at seventeen. His disolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was fond of an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Now, at seventeen, fell in love with Dan Herick. Andrew was killed in an auto accident. Now met Maxwell Reed, who made love to her. Margaret did not know that she was playing into a fast net of flappers. Virginia's death is a warning to her.

Therefore, Max was on fire with anxiety as to Nora Lee's attitude in Richard's presence. He was more than a little afraid to ask her any pointed questions.

Thought Remained

But the thought remained with her all evening. After the theatre drive to the picture in Lincoln Park, she thought of nothing but Nora Lee's attitude.

She had been so sure that she was going to get something out of this. She had been so sure that she was going to get something out of this.

ANNUNZIO IN BRITISH BUILD
FIGHT TO OUST
MUSSOLINI
AIRPOWERS'

London, Jan. 10 (L.N.S.)—Private cables received in London indicated that Gabriele D'Annunzio, the Italian aviator, had landed in the British Isles and had started the construction of a completely new navy along lines so revolutionary as to alter all conventional notions of fighting craft. It was learned today.

Mr. S. R. the Rodney and the Nelson, the two new ships laid down under the Washington treaty, will be at the same time fortress and battleship, with a radius of action covering thousands of miles. The London Express announced, making public the salient features of the new battleships.

Nine sixteen inch guns will be mounted in three turrets on the new ships. No guns will be visible on the after part of the ship, that will be used for a landing space for air planes.

Each ship is expected to carry several aircraft. The new fighters probably will be furnished, the only supposition being a chafed one, the magazine deck, as all the big guns will be forward.

The magazine will be forward, permitting the reduction of the length of armor plates sloping the ship. This weight, however, will be made up by the deck armor as protection from aerial attack. The second and third decks also will be armor plated, lowering the danger of aerial bombs penetrating to the bowels of the ship.

With nine children to feed, King's widow mother went to work in the cotton mill. Charles was a bobbin boy at a time when Lawson already had his taste of big money.

When King was twelve years old the mill burned, and that there might be one less mouth to feed, Charles was sent to the workhouse, where he was employed as a coal carrier.

From book agent to owner of a weekly paper and then to a cup runner on a Charlotte, N.C., daily paper he progressed.

He joined the staff of the Atlanta Constitution, where he was the Atlanta Journal and then made a long jump to the Richmond News Leader, where he reported successfully for the Republic and Chronicle.

LAWSON IN GREAT BATTLE WITH KING

LAWSON FIGHTS
C. J. KING
Financiers Clash as Each Endeavors to Promote Own Scheme

Telephone Heroine

MISS ALVA INGRAMHAM

WERE Thomas W. Lawson writing "Frozen Finance" today as a review of his battles in the dollar arena, it would be highly interesting to observe his treatment of the bitter fight he waged with Cardenio F. King.

King, in the light of four candid flickering caricatures on the walls of his cell in the Charles street jail, shared his tale of the feud from the beginning of his incarceration, a feud between men who never once had spoken to each other.

King Not "Big Man"

But whether the pathos was from the heart of Cardenio F. King or was the sympathy of a little developed writing sense, there is no two-fold.

King lies in his grave, his earthly journey done. He did not live to see fulfilled his last ambition, that Lawson, some day a poor and broken man, would take the bitter dose of his own medicine.

Cardenio F. King was not a "big man" when he was that Tom Lawson was Colonel.

Where Lawson was and is known throughout the entire civilized world is the name of King was recognized in the United States.

In the southern mill village of Greenville, N. C., Cardenio F. King was raised almost in seclusion.

Like Lawson, his father was a soldier in the Civil War, and a few years after Lee's surrender, Colonel King, North Carolina, administrator of the state, but the King fortune in stocks and fed.

With nine children to feed, King's widow mother went to work in the cotton mill. Charles was a bobbin boy at a time when Lawson already had his taste of big money.

When King was twelve years old the mill burned, and that there might be one less mouth to feed, Charles was sent to the workhouse, where he was employed as a coal carrier.

From book agent to owner of a weekly paper and then to a cup runner on a Charlotte, N.C., daily paper he progressed.

He joined the staff of the Atlanta Constitution, where he was the Atlanta Journal and then made a long jump to the Richmond News Leader, where he reported successfully for the Republic and Chronicle.

The King Of Venture

Twenty years after the fearful day he struggled over the dust road out of Greenville, Cardenio F. King had become a man of fortune.

Then, with several thousand dollars as the profits of a campaign he conducted for a year, he was in the Eastern papers, headed by the New York Sun, he dipped into the personal business venture that eventually was to bring him to grips with "T. W."

It was an old venture, incorporated with old holdings and white porcelains to be in Texas.

ORIENTALS
ACCUSED
BY POLICE

Mystery Over Parentage of Orphan Alleged Sold by Hartford Couple

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 10.—Deaths surrounding the sale of a thirteen-year-old schoolgirl to a group of Orientals as their white slave girl grew more and more as the police round up additional members of the band alleged to have "bought" the girl from her aunt and uncle.

Four Chinese and one Japanese are now under arrest, with John and Pearl Cohen, the latter the uncle and aunt of the "slave girl," Deirdre Wright.

When the first investigation was made by the authorities, only two Chinese were arrested, but further investigation developed that a large group of Orientals shared in the possession of the young school girl.

LIVED OVER STREET.
The Chinese arrested are laundrymen, practically all of whom work in a shop on the first floor of the apartment house where Cohen and his wife live at No. 104 Church street.

The Japanese arrested is S. Terada, father of the girl, Mrs. G. M. Hoshino, Hartford laundryman. The four Chinese under arrest are Charles Jung, aged 37; Lee Jin, aged 41; Charles Wong, aged 30 and Chung Ten, aged 25.

Police are now bending their efforts on establishing the identity of the child said to be the niece of the Cohen.

SEER CHILD'S KIN.
The man and woman say they obtained the child from an orphan's asylum near Hamilton, Me. and the mother of the girl was killed in a grade crossing accident. The girl's father is said to be living somewhere near Hamilton.

Deirdre at Hamilton has failed to reveal any trace of the girl's father or any record of the child having been in an orphanage.

Meanwhile, the seven defendants are held under heavy bail. A sentence of 30 years each of the defendants is expected.

AMERICA MAY GET CASH FROM BELGIUM

Paris, Jan. 10 (L.N.S.)—The American war claims against Germany will be paid off by apportioning the United States a portion of the 8 per cent allotted to Belgium as reparations, according to tentative plans reached today. They were drawn up by Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Ramsden, and the British Treasury.

"There are 2,000,000 Japanese residing on the Pacific slope and Japan is constantly sending more and more soldiers to enter the United States. There are more millions of Japanese in Mexico, just over the border. Japan is clearly coveting the Philippines and Hawaii."

Japan wants under mandate from the Versailles Treaty more than 1,500 Pacific islands which cover the entire Pacific Ocean, including the Philippines, Hawaii and the Marshall Islands.

"Japan is endeavoring to get a 'hold' on China as to exploit Chinese trade and exclude American and European business."

There are, however, Korea and established army and navy air bases in the Pacific. Japan is clearly coveting the Philippines and Hawaii."

"I am too young now," she said, "to know anything about politics, but when I grow older I am going to study all about them and I am going to go into them."

"You mean, you want to have what we call a political career?"

"The little girl smiled, joyfully. She looked over at her father. "I guess so," she answered. "Anyway, I want to become a Governor like my father."

FAKE DIRECTORY AGENT HUNTED IN ROBBERY

Boston police are searching today for a fake agent for the Boston city directory, who is believed to have stolen the home of Mrs. M. J. Samuelson at No. 3 Malabar street, Dorchester, during her absence.

When Mrs. Samuelson returned from a shopping trip she found her apartment had been ransacked, and jewelry valued at $350 was missing. Among the articles stolen was a Christmas card, which she said was from her sister, Miss Helen, who was in the city.

Three automobile bandits, captured near Bangor, Me., after a running gun fight, have been identified as James Earl Ray, James Earl Ray, and Edward H. Hansen, the trio who escaped from the Everett police station last November.

Their identity was established by a photograph of the trio taken in a Boston street, through a newspaper.

PLYMOUTH, VT., TO GET ELECTRIC LIGHT LINE

Rutland, Vt., Jan. 10.—If President Coolidge visits Plymouth, his native town, next summer, he will not have to do his evening reading by a kerosene lamp, the only means of illumination the little Vermont hamlet ever has known.

An electric power line will be strung from London, eleven miles away to Plymouth, according to an announcement by the Vermont Electric Company here.

The line will extend to the postoffice building where the executive offices were maintained during the President's last summer vacation and the service will be available to the President's father and other farmers.

GIRL, 22, STOLE AUTOS AT RATE OF ONE A DAY

Riverhead, L. I., Jan. 10 (Universal).—Until police stopped her, twenty-two-year-old Stella I. Wilson, member of a highly respected family, was engaged in the occupation of stealing automobiles at the rate of one a day, authorities say.

Two men companions, William J. Perry and David Macgregor, were arrested with the girl, Ursula's situation for Perry, a one-legged man, who has been accused by the police of having stolen several cars and join him in fleeing.

AGED MOTHER ALERT

"WAR IN THE OZARKS"

Quark, Ark., Jan. 10.—War in miniature, which threatened in the Ozarks Mountains when Neal McLaughlin barricaded himself in his home and refused to surrender to a posse which included national guardsmen armed with machine guns, was averted when McLaughlin's aged mother, Mrs. Francis McLaughlin, begged her son to "go to bed."

McLaughlin had long been waiting for a chance to avenge the death of his son, who was killed in the Mexican revolution. He was now in the mountains in custody. McLaughlin was sentenced to death some years ago, but sentence was commuted.

SIMMONS TO GIVE NEW SATURDAY COURSES

With the opening of the new term, several extension courses are to be offered at the Simmons College of Household Economics at Simmons College.

The one of greatest appeal to students is a course in food preparation. This is also open to the public.

Other courses open to the public are military and dressmaking.

COW MOOSE SHOWS UP IN BERSKIRCH COUNTY

LYDIA FULLER

Lydia, Only 12 Now, But She Is Aiming to Rule at State House

Little Lydia Fuller, the twelve-year-old daughter of the Governor, is going to occupy the seat of honor at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Association of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Yes, sir, little Lydia is going to follow right in the footsteps of her father and in some future year is going to occupy the seat of honor at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Association of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The little lady is really serious about her position. She really means it when she says that she wants and expects to be one of the future women Governors of Massachusetts.

"You mean," let her tell it. "I am going to go into politics and some day hope to become a woman Governor because my Dad did it. Anything my Daddy does is right, so why shouldn't I do as he does? Why shouldn't I want to be a Governor?"

There you have an expression of delightful, childish faith in a father who has never yet disappointed his children. There you have real hero worship. And the reporter wondered how little girl might not some day take the place of her Dad and be a Governor.

"I am too young now," she said, "to know anything about politics, but when I grow older I am going to study all about them and I am going to go into them."

"You mean, you want to have what we call a political career?"

"The little girl smiled, joyfully. She looked over at her father. "I guess so," she answered. "Anyway, I want to become a Governor like my father."

LA TRANGLER' LEWIS DOOMED TO BED FOR WEEKS BY INJURY

Nurmi May Be Riding to Defeat in Hard Schedule

After angling to become the champion of the world, Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish runner, is now in a hard schedule of races, and possibly months will be required for him to get back to his normal state.

The runner, who is now in a hard schedule of races, is now in a hard schedule of races, and possibly months will be required for him to get back to his normal state.

Nurmi is a puzzle to American Athletic coaches. They can't figure him at all. Some of them are willing to admit he is the greatest ever, but others contend that the old timers like George Conneff and Shrubbs were his equal.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

New York, Jan. 10.—While the general athletic excitement is at its height, it might be mentioned that Paavo Nurmi may be riding for a fall. He has allowed himself to be inveigled into accepting invitations by the various clubs, and somewhere along the general rig of way it is quite possible that an American crowd will watch him run second behind some worthy young man, present identity unknown.

This stunning event may happen no later than a week or ten days from this moment.

On Thursday night next he will go to the post at Madison Square Garden against a plausible field in a 500-meter race. The distance has been shortened from two miles at Nurmi's request. It might appear from this that he has something coming.

Two days later he is to step out in a special mile and a quarter race at the Illinois A. C. games, Chicago. The distance was increased the extra two quarters, also at Nurmi's request. He evidently has no intention of trying to repeat his Olympic triumph, in which he ran and won races at 5,000, 3,000, 2,000 and 1,000 meters, with leads in the winner of one week.

The distance he will run at the two meets are not markedly dissimilar. The reason is not far to seek. Nurmi has realized within the last forty-eight hours that he has bitten off a lumberjack's mouthful in agreeing to try to repeat his Olympic triumph, in which he ran and won races at 5,000, 3,000, 2,000 and 1,000 meters, with leads in the winner of one week.

HIS CHEST EXPANSION

ALL YANKS BUT RUTH TO SUFFER SALARY CUTS

By CHARLES A. TAYLOR
New York, Jan. 10.—A wholesale slashing of salaries paid the pool (baseball) courts known as the Yanks is in progress.

The only player certain of escaping the swing of the wage axe, so to speak, is George Herman Ruth. The Yankees' contract has two more years to run.

The Yankees do not rate as a CHAMPION team, that is the answer. They're only second rates, now, so why not economize? And the club comes back "Why not?"

The crop of hotshots among the Yankees is bound to be large if right economy is to be installed, and Manager Miller Huggins will have his diplomatic qualities tested to the full before they can hope to assemble a ball nine for the coming season.

HUB Y. M. C. A. IN BID FOR BASKETBALL TITLE

The Boston Y. M. C. A. is making a strong bid for the championship of the Two-State (Massachusetts and Rhode Island) Basketball League, which is composed of "Y" teams. Lynn and Boston tied up for the lead last Saturday in a game played on the Lynn floor, with three men and one left, each, and this will be broken in favor of one team or the other, in a game to be played on the floor of the Boston Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night.

Bobbie and His Pa

By William F. Kirk

I READ last week about Albo Lunkin & it was grand & it made me wish I had like Mister Lunkin only there ain't no rule in this world but the rule is I ain't big enuff to split them any more. Never mind Bobbie, and Pa, won't I could him my trouble, you may not be a great big Lunkin, but if you can be as great like what I am, Bobbie, and Pa, you will do better in pure time. Smart men say lots of things that make little boys and men. You never hear a smart woman speak that way, and Pa. No indeed, and Pa, smart wimmen know how to keep their mouths shut. To you mean I am talking too much, and Pa. Oh, no, and Pa, not that. Oh, no. You never talk much, and Pa. Well, Bobbie, and Pa, little boys must not feel bad if there ain't any rule to split any more, and Pa. They can be like Albo Lunkin in other ways, and Pa. They can do what ever work to near them to do for

DAILY SHORT STORY

BILLY HAZARD was not a happy man. His face showed it even when he tried hardest to appear in a festive mood. There was a chip on his left shoulder that one of two persons had tried to knock off to their sorrow. The young man who had been married to a girl named Elsie, and who had been married to her for three years, was now a man who had been married to her for three years, and who had been married to her for three years. over I saw it. Hart, do you see what I see? Isn't that Don Fleming coming in now? Grim Expression. "That doesn't require any great amount of perceptiveness," was the reply. "I wonder if the marriage is still going to take place." "It was once other than my friend, wearing the grimmest expression he could muster. His whole manner was aggressive. "Let's board the old bus in big grin," suggested Hart. "He has been very careful about other people's feelings." Together they strolled over to Fleming. "Thought you were being married tonight," Grey commented. "I'm afraid I was the answer. "There's something to this. We don't understand," said Grey. "The boy was in Fleming's bank. It's my opinion he was found short and Fleming made use of it to marry Elsie." "Well," drawled Grey, "we may guess it won't go through. Elsie was beautiful and young and that, but she looked like a haunted cat. Two there was tragedy in her face, if he has committed suicide."

"An arrow," growled Fleming. "He didn't die. The little fool set the notice to the paper himself. He meant to see it through, I guess, but his star got there in time to save him. He was short at the bank about $30,000." Deliberate Malice. "You weren't by any chance looking Elsie to marry you on such a score," asked Grey with deliberate malice. "I'm none of your business," commented Mr. Fleming with a snarl. "I'd thank you two impatient young cubs to be gone." "It wasn't until the following afternoon that Hart and Grey saw Billy. There was no chip on his shoulder. He was grinning in the broadest manner possible. "My name is Billy and my hands tremble right thank God, I've got a good heart. Born, could you help me through a wedding service? Nothing pretentious. Just a quiet home wedding, but I need some support." "It's mine, of course," gasped Grey.

"Toupinism"

Not Altogether in Vain, Perhaps. Anyway, It Helped the Hotel Bartlett

Looking over the events of the past week former Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin and his Democratic associates in the late Senate of Rhode Island must be feeling that the celebrated filibuster was not entirely in vain.

It drove 21 of the 22 Republican Senators out of the State on June 19, and kept them at the Hotel Bartlett, in Rutland, Massachusetts, until the day after New Year's.

The Republican organization paid the bills. The squabble was all about a 48-hour bill for women and minors in the factories and the Democratic demand for the calling of a Constitutional Convention.

The Democrats want a Constitutional Convention for the purpose of (1) abolishing the property qualification for voting and (2) wiping out the "rotten borough" system under which a village of a few thousand inhabitants is permitted representation in the State Senate equal to that of the great city of Providence.

And now comes the new REPUBLICAN Governor, the Honorable Aram J. Pothier, with two striking recommendations:

- 1.—That the property qualification for voting be abolished.
- 2.—That a bi-partisan commission be created by the Legislature for the purpose of reapportioning the State Senate.

Which brings these vital Rhode Island questions A LITTLE FURTHER FORWARD than they were when the majority members of the Senate ducked and ran away, last June.

There remains the 48-hour bill and Senator John H. Powers of Cumberland, Democrat, will reintroduce that if he has not done so already. There are 67 Republicans and 33 Democrats in this year's House and 33 Republicans and only 6 Democrats in the Senate. The 48-hour bill probably has small chance. It will be kept before the public, however, and publicity can do it no harm.

All in all, democracy and humanitarianism appear to be making progress, in Rhode Island as elsewhere. As for Massachusetts, the hotel up in Rutland had a busy season and an unusually good post-season, and is putting in a new heating plant.

Chesterfield

New Hampshire Birthplace of the New Justice of the United States Supreme Court Not Very Far From Plymouth, Vermont

The new Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States will be credited in the year books to New York, legally his place of residence, but in New England he will continue to be looked upon as just another one of our sons who went away to the big city and made good.

The Stones hall from Chesterfield, a lovely Cheshire County town in the southwestern corner of New Hampshire. Save only Dublin, no other town in that region is the Summer resort of so many notables.

When Harlan Fiske Stone was a boy, his parents removed to Amherst, Massachusetts, and the Attorney-General, who is shortly to take his place in the highest court in the land, was graduated from President Coolidge's college in 1894.

On his merits he climbed to a place at the very top of his profession in the greatest city in the world. But he has never forgotten Chesterfield or New Hampshire. When he was ready to marry, his choice was a girl back home. They returned to Chesterfield every Summer, with the children, and Chesterfield, fallen now to a place of only 601 inhabitants, makes quite a fuss over them.

New York, the Empire State, will make approving note of the elevation of Harlan Fiske Stone to the Supreme Court, while New Hampshire remembers it always. One of the Thirteen Original States, New Hampshire in all the years of the Republic has witnessed the calling of but three of her sons to the highest tribunal in the land. Mr. Justice Stone will be the fourth. The others were Levi Woodbury, 1845, and Salmon P. Chase, who was named from Ohio in 1854.

It isn't much of a journey from Chesterfield, N. H., to Plymouth, Vt., on the other side of the Connecticut. The roads away from these towns taken by two country boys, not so many years ago, met before they reached the college at Amherst.

New Hampshire will regard the Stone appointment as an act of neighborliness on the part of Vermont.

The rest of New England will find it is no cause to regret the position taken by these Six States on a certain momentous issue on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

Some Money Well Spent

And Some Money That Ought to Be Spent

The first cash payment based on the national bonus act went to Mrs. Irene C. Crist. The check for $1,853 was in payment for her dead husband, killed in the war. All will agree that it isn't too much. Money spent to help support a widow is well spent. Furthermore, a country able to afford a hundred millions for war can afford a few extra hundreds of millions for pensions and bonus.

At least 90 per cent. of all Americans believe that Post-office employees should have better pay, and that Uncle Sam can afford to set a good example to private employers. This newspaper has repeatedly urged the pay increase.

However, attacks in the Senate or elsewhere on President Coolidge because he vetoed the bill are unjust and unnecessary.

It wouldn't cost the President a dollar to double the pay of the postoffice employees. He doesn't pay the money, and wouldn't get what is saved. He does what he believes to be right in following out his program of economy. The letter carriers themselves know that.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

HE wonders why God made him so fascinating, irresistible and dangerous.

He wonders if the women suspect that he uses "blacks" and "encouragers" the way he does.

He wonders why, girl, he will make happy, by never letting her to entertain him, dance with him, or get him, this evening.

He wonders how many women would go blind, if he should ever be cruel or foolish enough to marry.

He wonders if "the girl before the last" will telephone him again today—and what new and graceful bits he will invent to discourage him.

He wonders why "falling in love" is so easy—and crawling out of it is always such a struggle.

He wonders why David Wark Griffith has never discovered him.

He wonders if "the girl of the moment" will fall for him, or prefer the "silent, self-controlled, devoted."

He wonders what the new stonecutter meant when she looked at him that way.

He wonders if ANY woman ever knows WHEN to say "goodbye."

He wonders why God made him so wonderful.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

CHARLES' turn it is the modern game, it glances upon a forty-eight night under the gates along the twilight way and brings the stars; calm stars that pay no heed to years which march along that never know man's frantic tears for youth and age. The stars shine pale and motionless, for they above the reach of life's dures, its pain and joy, and so their tender glimmer falls through depths of space, its touches grimy city walls to the stars.

Little Ones Need Clothes

I am an ex-service man who have had only three days' work in four months. Recently we had to vacate our little tenement because we owed the landlord three weeks' rent. I was forced to find another place for my three little children. I only have sixty cents in the house this morning and am going to see the landlady to get a little food for my children now. I am a very careful chauffeur and truck driver, but will take any kind of work. Speak French and English and write both. I wish I could borrow the money and buy a car. Will someone give me a job or help me get clothes for my little ones, also food and coal? I write nothing for nothing. I will pay back every cent.

Wants Violin

Helping Hand Editor: Can you help me to find a violin for a child eight years old? I would like to find a good second-hand one, price reasonable.

Parcel Accepted

Helping Hand Editor: Will you please thank the kind lady who sent the parcel of nice clothes to me? Everything was beautiful. I appreciate it immensely. Also many thanks to the Helping Hand. MAY B.

Wants Warm Clothes

Helping Hand Editor: I am writing to see if there is any kind person who can supply a few little girls, ten, eight, five and two, with some dresses or hats. The children love to be out of doors. I am very poor and have no money to buy clothes. I am a very good mother and I will pay back every cent.

Cannot Earn Much

Helping Hand Editor: I am a young mother of two babies, one a little girl two years old, and a baby boy 10 months old. My husband is in the hospital. I have been out looking for work for the last two weeks in order to help my baby, but I get only a few cents a day. I am a very good mother and I will pay back every cent.

Motherless Girl

I am a motherless girl of sixteen and am working but only earn small wages. I have two brothers and a sister. I am a very good mother and I will pay back every cent.

No Clothes for School

Helping Hand Editor: I am writing you about a very worthy family. Father has been cut off at the shoulder and mother has been in bed several weeks. I am a very good mother and I will pay back every cent.

Baby for Adoption

Helping Hand Editor: Being out of work, I am unable to pay further board for my baby. I have two other small children and would like to know if there is any one who would like to adopt a pretty six-month-old girl. I will give full surrender.
